APPENDIX TO The Calcutta Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1908.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

The following Notices are published for general information.

Calcutta, the 1st July 1908.

W. A. INGLIS,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

BAY OF BENGAL—HUGHLI RIVER APPROACH.

General Instructions.

No. 271 (first publication).—The following "directions" are laid down for guidance of masters of vessels, pilots and others in supersession of the instructions on pages 215, 216 and 217 of the third edition of the Bay of Bengal Pilot, 1901, and Bengal Government Notice No. 257, dated 6th July 1905 :—

Steam pilot vessels—Cruising station, Sandheads.

The steam pilot vessels are three-masted vessels painted white with yellow funnel.

On an inward-bound vessel being sighted, a square blue flag is hoisted at the main when the pilot vessel is underweigh; if the pilot vessel is at anchor, in addition a blue pennant is hoisted at the mizzen; at night the Regulation lights for steam pilot vessels are exhibited, also a flare up is shown.

During the south-west monsoon the steam pilot vessels cruise about 8 miles south to south-west of the Eastern Channel light in very strong winds and heavy sea about 10 miles. During the north-east monsoon they cruise or anchor about 2 to 3 miles S. by W. to S.W. of the Eastern Channel light vessel.

Pilotage is compulsory for all merchant vessels over 100 tons. If a pilot is not taken at the cruising station considerable loss of time is likely to occur before obtaining one on the river.

Approach—Directions.—Steam vessels arriving at the Sandheads and finding the steam pilot vessel, at the station, should close with her and lie to about 300 yards distant, under her stern, in the same direction the steam pilot vessel is heading, and in such a manner as to make a lee for the pilot boat when a pilot will be supplied.

To avoid delay, approaching steam vessels at night should, when about half-a-mile off the steam pilot vessel, indicate their gross tonnage by the following steam whistle signals :—

Over 3,400	tons gross	... One short blast.
Between 2,800 and 3,400	"	... Two short blasts.
" 1,800 and 2,800	"	... Three short blasts.
Under 1,800	"	... Four short blasts.

Sailing vessels should signal net tonnage.

Sailing vessels should make the pilot station signal for a pilot, and on the approach of the steam pilot vessel heave to, and a pilot will then be sent.

During bad weather when heaving is not safe, or when there are no pilots available, the steam pilot vessels during the day will not show the square blue flag at the main, and at night will not exhibit the Regulation lights or flare up for a steam pilot vessel.

Sailing vessels should not run on the station at night or in threatening weather.

The steam pilot vessels are in telegraphic communication (wireless) with Calcutta; the necessary forms can be obtained from the pilot boat.

In August, September and October, no pilots being available, sailing vessels are signalled to keep to windward; in this case it is advisable to keep the Eastern Channel light vessel well in sight, drop a kedge if wind falls light to prevent drifting off the station.

Caution.—Should it be necessary when approaching the Sandheads to anchor from any cause, if possible anchor outside a line joining Eastern Channel and Mutlah light vessels, not less than 15 fathoms mud.

A vessel will ride easier and bring less strain on her cable if anchored in depths of 15 to 20 fathoms than in less depths, especially in an estuary. In the greater depths the cable, with a good scope of chain, is never quite taut, therefore not so liable to part: the sea has less force than in shoal water.

BAY OF BENGAL—HUGHLI RIVER APPROACH.

General Instructions.

No. 271 (second publication).—The following “directions” are laid down for guidance of masters of vessels, pilots and others in supersession of the instructions on pages 215, 216 and 217 of the third edition of the Bay of Bengal Pilot, 1901, and Bengal Government Notice No. 257, dated 6th July 1905 :—

Steam pilot vessels—Cruising station, Sandheads.

The steam pilot vessels are three-masted vessels painted white with yellow funnel.

On an inward-bound vessel being sighted, a square blue flag is hoisted at the main when the pilot vessel is underweigh; if the pilot vessel is at anchor, in addition a blue pennant is hoisted at the mizzen; at night the Regulation lights for steam pilot vessels are exhibited, also a flare up is shown.

During the south-west monsoon the steam pilot vessels cruise about 8 miles south to south-west of the Eastern Channel light in very strong winds and heavy sea about 10 miles. During the north-east monsoon they cruise or anchor about 2 to 3 miles S. by W. to S.W. of the Eastern Channel light vessel.

Pilotage is compulsory for all merchant vessels over 100 tons. If a pilot is not taken at the cruising station considerable loss of time is likely to occur before obtaining one on the river.

Approach—Directions.—Steam vessels arriving at the Sandheads and finding the steam pilot vessel, at the station, should close with her and lie to about 300 yards distant, under her stern, in the same direction the steam pilot vessel is heading, and in such a manner as to make a lee for the pilot boat, when a pilot will be supplied.

To avoid delay, approaching steam vessels at night should, when about half-a-mile off the steam pilot vessel, indicate their gross tonnage by the following steam whistle signals:—

Over 3,400	tons gross	... One short blast.
Between 2,800 and 3,400	„	... Two short blasts.
„ 1,800 and 2,800	„	... Three short blasts.
Under 1,800	„	... Four short blasts.

Sailing vessels should signal net tonnage.

Sailing vessels should make the pilot station signal for a pilot, and on the approach of the steam pilot vessel heave to, and a pilot will then be sent.

During bad weather when boating is not safe, or when there are no pilots available, the steam pilot vessels during the day will not show the square blue flag at the main, and at night will not exhibit the Regulation lights or flare up for a steam pilot vessel.

Sailing vessels should not run on the station at night or in threatening weather.

The steam pilot vessels are in telegraphic communication (wireless) with Calcutta; the necessary forms can be obtained from the pilot boat.

In August, September and October, no pilots being available, sailing vessels are signalled to keep to windward; in this case it is advisable to keep the Eastern Channel light vessel well in sight, drop a kedge if wind falls light to prevent drifting off the station.

Caution—Should it be necessary when approaching the Sandheads to anchor from any cause, if possible anchor outside a line joining Eastern Channel and Mutlah light vessels, in not less than 15 fathoms mud.

A vessel will ride easier and bring less strain on her cable if anchored in depths of 15 to 20 fathoms than in less depths, especially in an estuary. In the greater depths the cable, with a good scope of chain, is never quite taut, therefore not so liable to part; the sea has less force than in shoal water.
